

Minor in Theatre Design, Technology, and Management

This minor, also known as Theatre DTM, allows students with a vested passion in theatre design, technical areas, and management positions, to develop the essential foundations and vocabulary of craft through a structured, layered approach to professional production processes in theatre. The minor recognizes designers, technicians, and management staff as generative artists in theatrical spaces and provides the core creative tools and professional preparation emphasis needed to thrive in professional theatrical rooms. A minor in DTM prepares NEIU artists for the art and the business of theatre and entertainment while providing them with invaluable skills to aid in self-expression, social change activation, and performance-based culture building.
